The capital revenue distinction in the current judicial landscape

Whether an amount is on capital or revenue account is a perennial issue for tax practitioners. The characterisation of an expense requires a critical analysis between the circumstances in which an amount is incurred and the application of legal principles. Tax practitioners should be equipped with an expert understanding of how the Courts have recently approached these issues and be able to identify and advise in areas where there continues to be uncertainty.

Join us for a 6-part webinar series scheduled throughout July and August where our presenters will consider each of the recent High Court and Federal Court decisions on this issue. The series will culminate in a facilitated panel discussion made up of tax and legal experts. Our all-star line-up of leading tax professionals will guide you through the issues, share their insights and provide practical solutions to the challenges experienced by practitioners in this area.

Technical program

Date / Time	Topic	Presenter
Friday, 24 July 2020	Part 1: Origin Energy Limited v Commissioner of Taxation (No 2) [2020] This case arose in the context of the privatisation of the retail sale of electricity in NSW. The question before the court was whether “capacity charges” paid by Origin in the 2011, 2012 and 2013 tax years were deductible either under section 8-1 or section 40-880. In this session, Anna will address: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> – the factors that led the court to determine that the charges were capital in nature and therefore not deductible under section 8-1; – the court’s analysis of section 40-880 and the relevant exclusions to it, being the exclusions in ss 40-880(5)(d) and 40-880(5)(f). 	Anna Wilson, FTI Victorian Bar
	Part 2: Healius Limited v Commissioner of Taxation [2019] FCA 2011 In this case, the Federal Court found that lump sum payments made by the Taxpayer to acquire medical practices were deductible under section 8-1 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997. This session will discuss in detail the facts of the Healius case as well as Perram J’s reasoning for allowing a deduction. It will also focus on the broader implications of the decision for the purpose of determining the distinction between capital/revenue and how the judgement may be relevant in practice.	Rachel Law, CTA Hall & Wilcox Lawyers
Friday, 31 July 2020	Part 3: Mussalli v Commissioner of Taxation [2020] FCA 544 Ari will be presenting on Mussalli v Commissioner of Taxation [2020] FCA 544, a case which considers the tax treatment for payments described as “prepaid rent” and paid by a franchisee to a franchisor upon entering into lease and license agreements. The presentation will: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> – provide an overview of the principles confirmed by the Court as being relevant to determining whether an outgoing is of a capital or revenue nature; – focus on the key issues identified by the Court in finding for the Commissioner that the payments were on capital account and therefore not deductible; and – explore the practical implications of the decision. 	Ari Rosenbaum King & Wood Mallesons
	Part 4: Commissioner of Taxation v Sharpcan Pty Ltd [2019] HCA 36 In Sharpcan , the High Court unanimously held that payments made by the trustee of the Daylesford Royal Hotel Trust to the Victorian State Government for 16 gaming machine entitlements were on capital account and not deductible under section 8-1 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997. The session will consider the reasoning of the High Court and Thawley J (who, dissenting in the Full Federal Court, also held the payments were on capital account). The session will also consider whether the High Court has established a new test to be used when considering questions of revenue or capital outgoings.	Kaitilin Lowdon, ATI Arnold Bloch Leibler
Friday, 14 August 2020	Part 5: Watson as Trustee for the Murrindindi Bushfire Class Action Settlement Fund v Commissioner of Taxation [2020] FCAFC 92	Claire Nicholson, CTA
Friday, 21 August 2020	Part 6: Panel discussion – Recent capital versus revenue decisions Our expert panel will wrap up the series with an in-depth discussion on all of the issues raised by these decisions, share understandings and consider some practical solutions that may assist in overcoming the challenges highlighted by these recent cases.
